

傷健人仕 (如失明) : Mute people, born hearing impaired people (Basically people who use sign language)

說明: The idea's aim is to try and improve the communication between sign language users and non-sign language users. The sign language user communicates by using sign language whilst a camera detects it and somehow converts the visual sign language into the meaningful, speaking sound, which can be adjusted to different languages, in order for the non-sign language user to understand. For the non-sign language user to communicate, they type what they're trying to say, which are converted into a video form of a person expressing the sign language. The format of this idea can be an app (iphone/android) or software in a computer and there must be a camera.
